sixty-three

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million, from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1995. The public sector has also become an important employer of women, with 5.5 million women employed in the public sector in 1995, compared with 4.5 million in 1980.

There are a number of reasons why the public sector has become an important employer of women. One reason is that the public sector has a high proportion of women in its workforce. In 1995, 80% of the public sector workforce were women, compared with 60% in 1980.

Another reason is that the public sector has a high proportion of women in its senior management. In 1995, 30% of the public sector senior management were women, compared with 20% in 1980.

A third reason is that the public sector has a high proportion of women in its part-time workforce. In 1995, 40% of the public sector workforce were part-time, compared with 30% in 1980.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the underlying mechanisms of the observed phenomena. This is followed by a detailed analysis of the data, which shows that the results are consistent with the theoretical predictions. The final section concludes the paper by summarizing the findings and suggesting directions for future research.

The second part of the paper focuses on the methodological aspects of the study. It describes the data sources, the sample selection process, and the statistical models used to analyze the data. The results of the empirical analysis are presented in a series of tables and figures, which illustrate the relationship between the variables of interest.

The third part of the paper discusses the policy implications of the findings. It highlights the need for further research to better understand the underlying mechanisms and to develop effective policies to address the issues at hand. The paper concludes by emphasizing the importance of continued research in this area.

authors. Other English classes included American literature, composition, journalism, speech, and reading improvement.

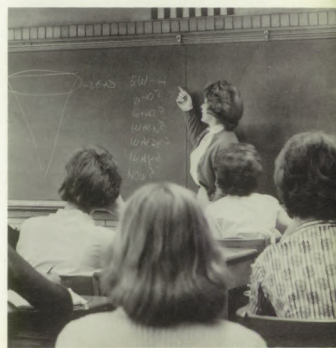

JUDY NAIRN EXPLAINS "The Proper Way to Pick Blackberries" to Mrs. Kackley's Speech Class.

IN MR. CLYNE'S Journalism class, Virginia Gray explains the inverted pyramid style of writing news stories.

Students Gave to Kim for Tenth Year

In geography, history, government, and economics, Tech students learned about our world and its people-past and present. While learning they took part in what had become a Tech tradition, the Kim Yong Hi fund. Nineteen sixty-three marked the tenth year that Kim had been supported by the Tech Social Studies classes, who contributed $180 a year to help this small Korean orphan.

IN MR. MILLER'S Geography Class, Dan Chudy works on a map of the Eastern Hemisphere.

SHARON ROGERS and Diana Kudera, students of Miss Peehl's Government class, locate points of interest and importance on a map of Indiana.

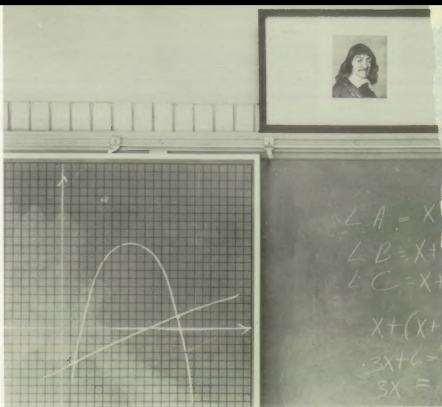

STUDENTS LISTEN ATTENTIVELY while Gene Scott gives an oral report in Mr. Callantine's Economics class.

MR. RICE LECTURES his History IV class using the map of the world as an aid.

MR. ESTERHAY AND his eighth hour geometry class looks on while John Newlun does a problem on the board.

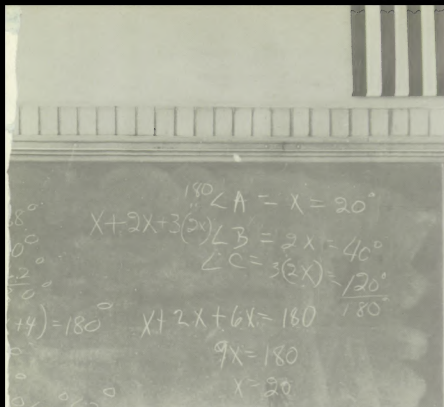

MISS HANLON DELIVERS a lecture during her third period Business Math class.

Math Classes Helped Prepare Student for College or Job

Sixteen classes in mathematics covered all its aspects, including remedial arithmetic and analytic geometry. Technical and vocational students were required to take at least five semesters. They studied either advanced mathematics or practical and applied shop math to prepare them for college or a job in business or industry.

IN MR. BORMAN'S Algebra I class these students watch while a problem is explained on the board.

GIRLS IN MRS. HIGGINS's Family Living class discuss everyday problems.

DONALD DAVIS is pictured drawing the many fragile parts of the inner ear in Mr. Waite's Health and Safety class.

Students Were Taught Proper Care of Health and Home

Tech's curriculum during 1962-63 contained such subjects as Health and Safety, Homemaking, Home Management, Family Living, and Home Nursing. These classes helped Tech students obtain knowledge needed for proper care of health and home.

MISS THOMAS POINTS out correct weaving techniques to Carolyn Anderson and Sandra Atkinson, students of Homemaking class. LEARNING HOW TO use a roller bandage in Miss Kapantais's Home Nursing class are Wanda Glover and Mary Crook. CLAUDETTE BALIO and Beverly Bol discuss house plans in Miss Daggett's Home Management class.

MRS. DAVIS' PHYSICAL science class completes a test.

MR. GILREATH DEMONSTRATES TO his class the reaction of hydrochloric acid to hydrogen.

Science Study Included Paramecia to Rockets

Science students studied everything from paramecia to rocket engines—the principles of petroleum refining to the chemistry of steel. In biology, chemistry, and physics, all required courses, those on the Technical course researched the basic principles of science. Using the facilities in three laboratories, they learned scientific method by applying it. Vocational students took general science and physical science, with subject matter suited to their needs, and received a necessary background in practical science.

MR. WELTY EXPLAINS the circulation of air to his eighth period physics class.

AN EXPERIMENT IN distillation is carried on by Oscar Ortegon and John Thon, students of Mr. Parson's chemistry class.

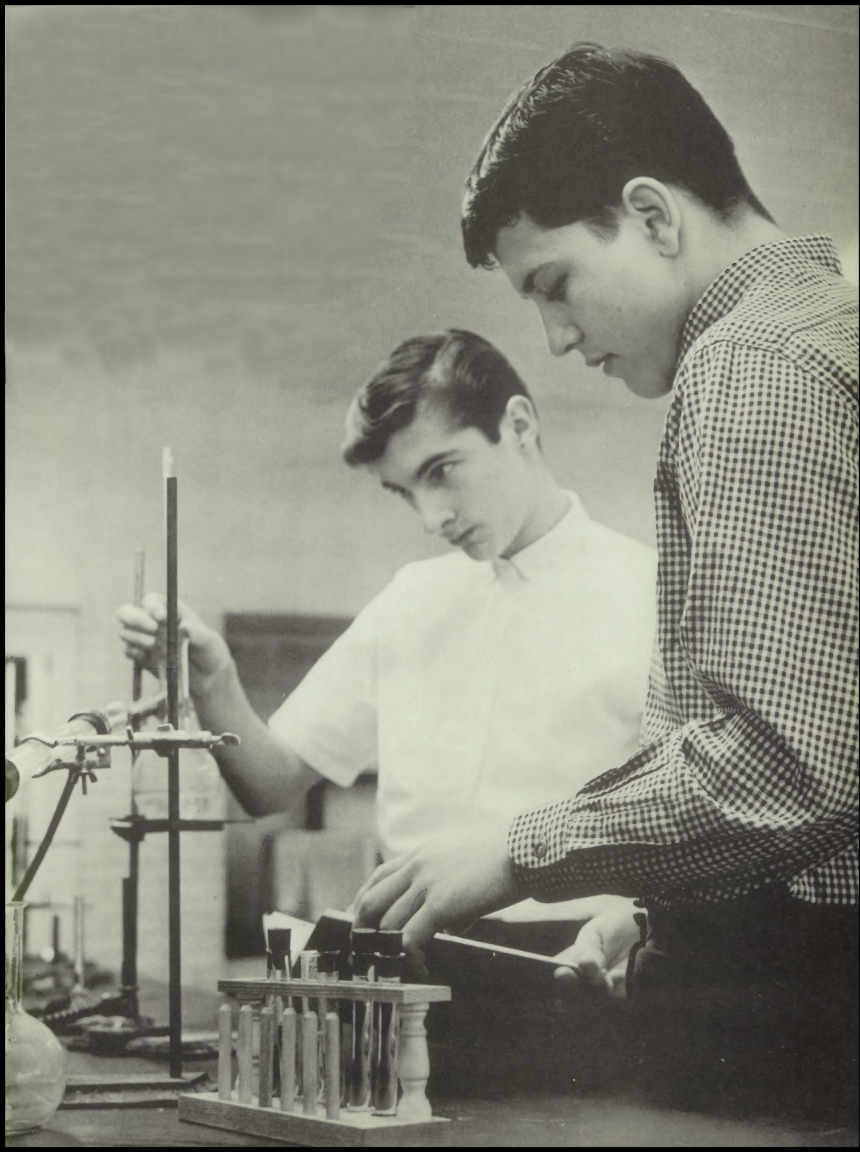

BILL TROWE AND LARRY Wiening work on a project in their physics class.

MARY KISFALUSI AND Mike Peseck check the weight of a white rat which Mary brought for a project in Mr. Hoch's Biology I class.

MISS KEMNA IS teaching her students in Class Piano how to count and keep time while playing the piano.

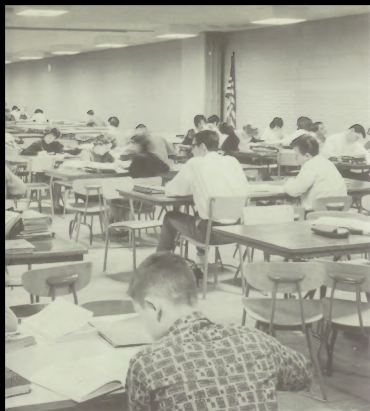

ENTITLED "DREAMSCAPE," this work of abstract sculpture was done by Dennis Hill, a student in Miss Clency's Art Class.

STUDIOUS SILENCE IN Art Class as minds and fingers create. Freedom of expression in the class permits a free choice of project and material.

IN THE EIGHTH hour study hall students have time to catch up on their homework.

...For Sheer Enjoyment!

There were those courses in 1962-63 in which students enrolled for sheer pleasure. Some chose to spend their time doing homework in a study hall, while others learned to operate a projector in visual aids or learned to express themselves in an art class project. Others elected to play an instrument in the band, to set up a headline for the Tech Times, or to learn to play the piano. There was also a course in music appreciation in which students listened to and discussed the world's great compositions. Other choices included choral music, drama, and Chart.

Seven Metal-Working Shops Helped

TWO FRESHMEN IN EXPLORATORY metals shop prepare a sand mold used in making castings.

Seven well-equipped metal-working shops helped students gain experience in using tools and machines found "on the job" in industry. Included were Exploratory Metals (for freshmen), Machine Shops I and II, Sheet Metal Shop, Forge-Foundry Shop, Weld Shop, and Plumbing Shop.

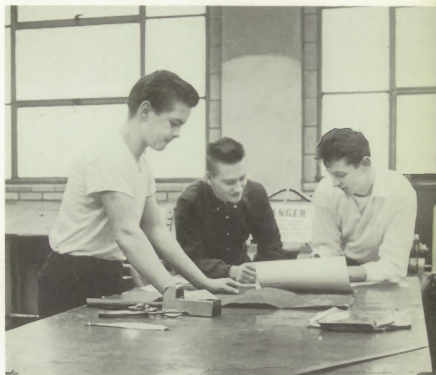

TOM CLAWSON, USING a welding fixture, assembles a bicycle rack in Mr. Flack's Welding shop.

Students Gain 'On-the-Job' Training

IN MR. RANNEY'S Foundry shop, Tony Jayne pours molten aluminum into molds while Jerry Dodd watches closely.

TOM STEVENS IS shown melting out a soil pipe job in Mr. Zink's Plumbing shop.

SHEET METAL SHOP students lay out a job from blueprints.

IN MR. STECYK'S Machine I shop, Thomas Hatfield, Larry Henning, and Bob Hill cut a pin for a machinist clamp.

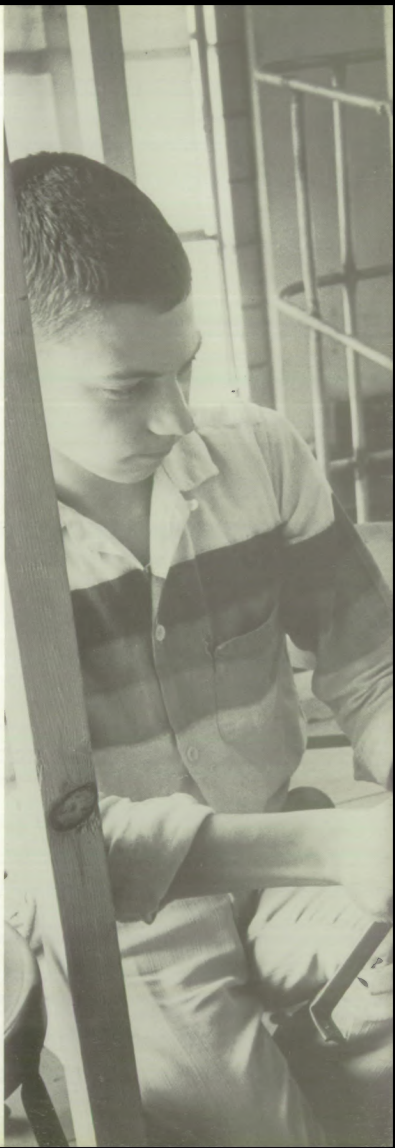

WAYNE CHANDLER and Ron Berdine repair a dryer in Mr. Rinehart's Home Appliance Shop.

Appliance Repair-- New Electric Shop

Home Appliance Shop was organized as a new shop to fill the demand for training in the appliance repair field. Electric I, II, and III students were instructed in house, telephone, and signal wiring, motor repair and maintenance, and T.V. and radio repair. An Exploratory Shop also enabled freshmen to decide if they wished further electric training.

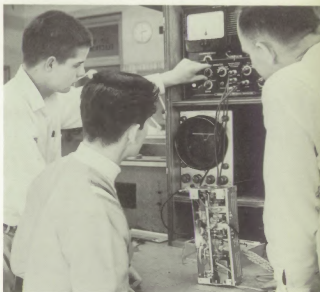

RAY KOZUCH, David Kominiak, and Ron Achor study a voltmeter in Mr. Buehrle's Electronics shop.

AS PART OF HIS Exploratory Electricwork, Danny Wright determines the shape of a magnetic field.

IN MR. BUEHRLE'S Electronics shop, Dennis Gauthier and Nick Gertos receive instructions on how to align an F.M. receiver.

KEN LINDSTROM begins the process of rewinding a motor in Mr. Hobb's Electric II Shop.

IN CARPENTRY SHOP, Larry Minton and Ralph Lenzo build a two-story, A-frame house in miniature scale.

Woodworkers Made Houses and Patterns

Those whose interest in woodworking was stimulated in Exploratory Wood, a required freshman subject, found all necessary facilities available for further training. Wood Shop taught them design, layout, and selection of lumber for projects which they completed using both hand and power tools. Pattern and Cabinet Shop students made useful articles such as household furniture as well as patterns for Foundry Shop castings.

RON TURNIPSEED IS using a jig saw in Mr. Stemper's Exploratory Wood Shop.

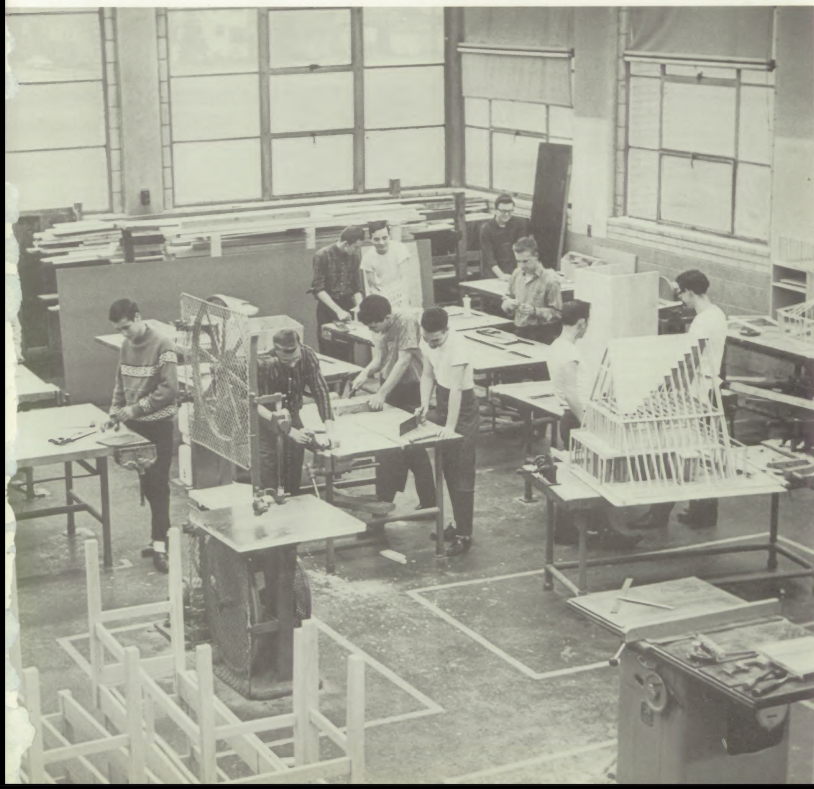

MR. SCHAW and the Pattern and Cabinet Shop boys work on projects.

FRESHMAN STUDENTS BUSY at work on drawings in Exploratory Drafting shop, taught by Mr. Shreffler.

Four Shops Offered Instruction in All Phases of Drafting

In drafting shops in the 1962-63 curriculum, four shops were offered: Drafting Shop, for boys planning to be professional draftsmen; Sketching and Mechanical Drawing, in which students obtained a knowledge of working drawings and sketches for use on the job; Technical Drafting, which enabled students to master all processes useful to an engineer; and Exploratory Drafting, in which freshmen learned basic drafting procedure and whether or not they wished to continue majoring in the drafting field.

IN DRAFTING SHOP, Mr. Adaska explains a drawing to some of his students.

IN AUTO II Bob Ryzinski, Bob Geeve, and George Gawarys work on an automatic transmission.

New Auto I Shop Replaced Aviation

JAMES MICKEY AND James Smith make final adjustments on a carburetor in Mr. Ford's Auto I shop.

In 1962-63 the old aviation shop was taken out and a new Auto I shop was initiated. Mr. Ford, former aviation instructor, taught Auto I, which covered fundamentals of the auto engine. Mr. Norris instructed Auto II students on more advanced repair problems.

KEN THOMPSON works under a car in Mr. Norris's Auto II Shop.

MICHAEL RYBA SETS slugs on the Linotypemachine in Printing II.

Two Shops Taught Students to Print

Printing I involved manual typesetting and the use of offset and platen presses. Advanced procedures, including the use of vertical presses and the Linotype machine, were mastered by students in Printing II, who also printed for the School System.

JOHN SASSE AND Phillip Venecy, students in Printing I shop, set up a hand-operated platen press.

MR. PAT IANNONE demonstrates the use of the 2066 Multilith press, used to print the Tech Times, to Ron Jacusis and Eric Anderson.

There Was a Clerical Course ..

Comptometer II, Introduction to Business, Practical Service, Filing, and Business Essentials were classes offered on the Clerical Course. Students learned to work problems on the comptometer, and to do such odd jobs as handling and wrapping money, using candy and meat scales, and using the duplicator in Introduction to Business. They also learned processes of banking, telephone work, and filing in Practical Service and rapid typing and filing in Filing Shop. Job opportunities and the fundamentals of office work were included in a course called Business Essentials.

SUSAN SPARKS IS working on a job in Mr. Velligan's Comptometer class.

ROSE IMRICH IS working on a problem on the automatic calculator in her Introduction to Business class.

LEARNING TO USE the scales is a part of the shop work demonstrated here by Gloria Marlatt and Gloria Maddox while in their Practical Service Class.

DONNA BLANK is shown with her employer, Mr. Janc, of Janc Drugs in Hesseville. Donna's training in the D.E. course allowed her to work half a day and go to school the other half.

D.E. - New Business Course

A new course of study for juniors and seniors was put into effect this year--Distributive Education. The objectives of this program were to lay a solid foundation of good work habits, good human relations, and to aid students in understanding the importance of a job. It was just one of Tech's learn-by-doing business courses. Other practical aspects of office work were office practice and production work for the school and office.

IN SHORTHAND I CLASS the students take dictation from Mrs. Jenkins.

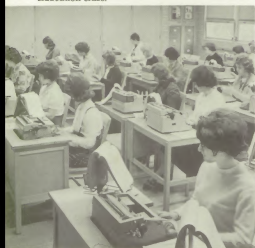

SUE WATSON CHECKS her notes before she starts transcribing in Mrs. Jenkins Transcription class.

SENIOR GIRLS IN Key Punch busy at work.

CAROLYN MULLINS AND Sandra Corey set up a display for Distributive Education class.

LEARNING HOW to center headings vertically and horizontally are these students in Mrs. Pogoso's Typing I class.

IN MRS. KRAMER'S Personal Typing class, Gary Posey and Beverly Kolat compare letters that they typed with the model semiblocked letter on the board.

JOAN PAPROCKI AND Beverly Forrester look on while Keith Watson dresses a mannequin for Distributive Education class.

AT WORK ON the switchboard in the main office is Tina Whittis, who is engaged in Office Practice - Semester I.

KATHY FECHALOS, Linda Best, and Sharon Daugherty check the balances from the Chart campaign in their Advanced Bookkeeping Class.

BARBARA SMIEDZIMSKI IS putting the finishing touches on her dress which she made for Christmas in Mrs. A. Wood's Clothing II class.

Coat or Dress? Clothing Student Specialties!

Every new girl at Tech was required to take one semester of clothing, in which she made such articles as skirts and blouses. After the required semester, if the girl wished to do so, she could go on to advanced clothing. In these advanced classes, girls made such articles as suits, coats, and dresses.

MRS. A. WOOD SHOWS her Clothing I class a skirt made by one of her students.

Food Students Prepared, Served Nutritious Meals

In Foods I and II and in Cafeteria Foods, students gained experience in preparing and serving nutritious meals in any quantity. They received practice by helping to prepare school lunches in Cafeteria Foods and by cooking for and serving each other in their food classes.

SALADS ARE BEING prepared for school lunches by Virginia Spoljoric and Bob Hooper.

OUR 1962 HOMECOMING Queen—Diane Osika.

Tigers--Homecoming Victors

Tech's Tigers, inspired by the backing of students in the Homecoming Parade and at the Bonfire, marched over to Hammond High field on Oct. 4 to return with a 35 to 25 victory over Gary Tolleston. At halftime the King and Queen candidates were presented their crowns. Jim Rutz received the King's crown for Jim Folta, quarterback of the team. The following evening Jim Folta and Diane Osika, the Tiger royalty for '62, reigned over the victory soc-hop at the Civic Center. The Homecoming Parade included 75 cars. Cars judged best decorated belonged to Barbara Mauch, Marlene Lewandowski, and Janet Lakatos, individual entries, and Office Practice, Auto Shop and Machine Shop won honors in the shop division.

Tiger Eleven Made 1963 .500 Season

Living up to Coach Walt Viellieu's high hopes, the Tigers made 1963 the second year in a row that Tech has had a .500 season. They faced some of the toughest competition in Northern Indiana football, and made Tech's name respected by all of the Region's teams. A rugged, determined line and spirited backfield brought long-awaited triumph to a team that was "on the way up."

After Lunch: Talk, Study, Recreation

In 1963-62 students enjoyed varied activities during lunch hours. In the gym, students sat and talked or watched the numerous basketball games being played.

Included Parties and Dances

JUNIOR—SENIOR PROM—1962

Tech's social life included a number of parties and dances that allowed students to enjoy themselves in an atmosphere of relaxation. Parties ranged from after-the-game soc hops given by Art Club and Student Council to a St. Patrick's dance sponsored by the Junior Red Cross and an informal dance held by Audio-Visual Club featuring a student dance band. Swaying palms and an erupting volcano set the scene for a Hawaiian Luau given by the Girls' Club. Social events of 1963 were climaxed with the Junior-Senior Prom held at Madura's Danceland on May 31. Pictured here are events that added an important aspect to the life and growth of a Tech student.

Sun Valley Was Setting For Christmas Program

Tech's Christmas program was presented this year with much pagentry and color. The Drama and Vocal Departments gave the program called "Christmas at Sun Valley Lodge." According to custom, the Vocal Music Department caroled in the hallways the day before Christmas dismissal, and the Girls' Club gave a Christmas tea for faculty, ex-faculty, and school personnel.

Drama Groups Gave

"Arsenic and Old Lace," presented by the Drama Department November 7, 1962, was the story of two charming and innocent ladies who populated their cellar with bodies of old men who drank their elderberry wine. Their brother, who thought he was Teddy Roosevelt, buried the corpses in the cellar. Two other main characters were Dr. Einstein (who resembled the Frankenstein Monster, rather than the famous physicist), and Mortimer, who was a famous movie critic.

Penny Musser Starred as Tammy

"Tammy Tell Me True" was presented March 1, 1963, by the graduating seniors of 1963. It was about Tammy, the lovable shanty-boat girl who follows her own true love, Pete Brent, to college so he would be proud of her. What happens to her is both funny and pathetic. The main parts were: Tammy--Penny Musser; Pete Brent--Jim Folta; Tom Freeman--Dave Strauser; Mrs. Call--Kathleen Mc Aleavey; Rita--Georga Fulkerson; Professor Everett--Ray Kozuch; Granpa--Richard Hutchinson; and Joey--Bernarr Shaw.

SENIOR HISTORY

The Seniors of 1963 began their year by electing the following class officers: Tom Cameron, president; Ray Kozuch, vice-president; Mary Jo Trentowski, secretary; Carol Oldfield, social chairman; and Sharon Anderson, treasurer.

The class flower was the rose bud, and the class colors were lavender and white.

Sponsors of the Senior Class were Mrs. Velva Wood and Mr. Gerald Kackley.

"Satellite Safari" was the name of the Junior-Senior Party held November 21, 1962.

A party honoring students receiving Senior Mirror Awards was held on Wednesday, January 30, 1963.

"Tammy Tell Me True" was the play given by the seniors on March 1, 1963.

The Senior Dinner was held in the cafeteria on Tuesday, May 7, 1963.

"These Precious Moments" was the title of the Prom given in honor of the graduating class of 1963. The dance was held at Madura's Danceland on May 31, 1963.

The Seniors were also honored by a Senior Class Day and Dress-Up Day on May 24, 1963.

Baccalaureate Services were held in the auditorium on Sunday June 9, at 2:00 p.m. The service was conducted by the Rev. Stanley J. Howell, of Hyde Park Methodist Church.

Commencement exercises were on Wednesday, June 12, at 8:00 p.m.

THE KETTLE

Across from Tech on Carroll

As a member of the Senior Class, very soon you will be making a decision regarding a big step into the future. Perhaps your decision will be to go on for further education. Or it may be, you will be looking for the job of your choice. In either event, this decision will affect and shape your future life in many ways.

Regardless of what you decide, we hope that the Inland Steel Company will be a part of your future.

Many graduates are currently involved in successful careers here at the Harbor Works as part of the nation's basic steel industry.

Steel mill work today is highly complex, involving automated production lines which require people who can be trained in skilled jobs. Most of the jobs are involved directly in the steel-making process while others are available in the laboratories or in various departmental offices. Regardless of your interests, excellent opportunities exist with Inland Steel.

WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE?

In addition to excellent paying jobs and an outstanding benefit program, Inland offers a variety of on-the-job training programs plus the Purdue-Inland Program. This Program, offered to a full time employee, provides training in the areas of steelmaking, mechanics, and electricity.

Plan now to investigate the many opportunities for your future with Inland Steel Company.

EDWARD CONGRATULATES HAMMOND TECH GRADUATES

Another fine group of men and women will join the ranks of Tech alumni. Many of our best employees have come from Calumet area high schools, especially Hammond Tech. They work as technicians in our world-famous research and experimental laboratories (above); as draftsmen and designers in our quality-conscious engineering department; as production workers in our modern manufacturing plant; or they perform a wide variety of duties in our many fine offices. We're proud of these Tech graduates. We hope to see more of them.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase from 1.1 billion to 1.5 billion.

As the world's population grows, the demand for food and other resources will increase. This will put pressure on the environment and on the world's food supply. It is important that we find ways to meet this demand without harming the environment or the world's food supply.

One way to do this is to use sustainable agriculture. Sustainable agriculture is a way of farming that uses natural resources in a way that will not harm them. It uses methods that will not deplete the soil or the water, and it uses methods that will not harm the environment.

Another way to do this is to use sustainable forestry. Sustainable forestry is a way of managing forests that will not harm the forest. It uses methods that will not deplete the forest or the land, and it uses methods that will not harm the environment.

There are many other ways to meet the world's demand for food and other resources without harming the environment or the world's food supply. It is important that we find these ways and use them to meet the world's demand for food and other resources.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the cultural context of the research. It highlights how cultural differences can influence the interpretation of data and the design of the study. The second part of the paper focuses on the methodology used in the study, including the selection of participants and the data collection process. The third part of the paper presents the results of the study, which show that there are significant differences in the way that people from different cultures interpret and use technology. The final part of the paper discusses the implications of these findings for future research and for the design of technology that is culturally sensitive.

The study was conducted in a laboratory setting, where participants were asked to perform a series of tasks that required the use of a computer. The tasks were designed to be culturally neutral, but the results showed that participants from different cultures had different levels of proficiency and different ways of approaching the tasks. For example, participants from a collectivist culture tended to be more cautious and more focused on the task, while participants from an individualist culture tended to be more confident and more focused on the speed of the task.

These findings have important implications for the design of technology that is used in a global context. Designers need to be aware of the cultural differences that can influence the way that people use technology, and they need to design technology that is flexible enough to accommodate these differences. This might involve designing interfaces that are more intuitive and more forgiving, or it might involve designing interfaces that are more culturally specific.

Future research should continue to explore the relationship between culture and technology use, and should focus on developing more effective ways of designing technology that is culturally sensitive. This might involve conducting more studies that compare different cultural groups, or it might involve developing new theories that explain the relationship between culture and technology use.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a vision for the future of mental health services, which includes a focus on prevention, early intervention and recovery. The vision is based on the principles of partnership, shared decision-making and recovery. The vision is to create a mental health system that is responsive to the needs of people with mental health problems, and that is based on the principles of partnership, shared decision-making and recovery.
